

Mental Health Awareness Week

Tuesday 7th May 2024

Dear parents / carers,

I would like to share with you this term's National Mental Health and Well-being campaign to be promoted at St. Paul's Catholic Nursery and Primary School. This year's Mental Health Awareness Week 2024 will take place from 13th to 19th May, with the theme of "Movement: Moving more for our mental health".

This year's focus week aims to strengthen understanding on the top tips for movement and how movement reduces stress and anxiety and boosts your self-esteem. To promote this week we would like children to wear trainers to school on Friday 17th May so that children can be led by our well-being team to take part in boosting activities, regular movement breaks and brain gyms across the day. All to practice and promote the importance of a healthy and balanced lifestyle.

TIPS FOR MOVING MORE FOR YOUR MENTAL HEALTH

MENTAL HEALTH

WEEK
13-19 MAY 2024

Movement is important for your mental health. It can increase your energy, reduce stress and anxiety, and boost your self-esteem. Read our tips to help you get moving more for your mental health.

Find moments for movement every day

When life's busy, it can be tricky finding time for wellbeing-boosting activities. Finding moments for movement might be easier than you think. Why not use the time you spend waiting to move more? When you're waiting for the kettle to boil, for your kids to come out of school, or for a bus to arrive. These moments will add up!

Set small, achievable goals

Set yourself small goals. It might be walking to the end of your street. Then you can push yourself a little further each day. As you make progress, you will create positive feelings that can boost your confidence and mood.

Take a break from sitting

Many of us sit for long periods during the day: working at desks, driving, or watching our favourite TV show. Research shows that it's unhealthy to be still for long. Set a timer to take regular breaks to stand up, walk around and stretch.

Find the fun

Choose activities you enjoy that get you moving. Instead of thinking of movement as a chore, embrace your inner child and find the joy in movement. Fun alongside movement will increase your motivation and the psychological benefits.

Connect with others

We can strengthen our relationships or even make new friends when we take part in moving with others. These social connections are also great for our mental health. Think about ways to make your catch-up with friends more active. Check out groups and activities happening in your area.

Move in nature

Research suggests that moving in nature has greater positive effects on our wellbeing compared to indoors. Take your moments for movement out in the wild. Go for a walk in the countryside or try cold water swimming. Parks, gardens, nature reserves, all provide opportunities for movement and meeting new people.

Try something new

Trying new experiences can boost our wellbeing. Pushing ourselves to try new things opens us up to new opportunities for movement, making new friends, and having fun. Having the courage to try something new will also give your confidence a boost.

Plan things to look forward to

Having events and plans in the diary to look forward to is great for mental health, it can give a sense of hope and excitement for the future. Add moments for movement to your diary and make plans to do fun things that you can get excited about.

Listen to the music that gets you moving

Some songs are just made for moving. We all have favourite tunes that get us dancing. So, crank them up and have a living room disco where you can dance like no-one's watching!
